

About Me

Physical Self

The photo at the side was an adorable portrait a certain person made for me, I used to have long hair yes, and somehow that phase kind of resonated with me the most.

I do have a lot of physical insecurities like most people but I'd say it's what drives me to keep improving what I'm born with, There was this time when I had chickenpox and it really imprinted in my mind to appreciate my skin, it can go worse or better, complaining won't help.

Spiritual Self

I'm not really a religious person, although my spirituality stays intact, I've always believed in the balances of things, joy and sadness, to the point that I get scared when I enjoy too much,

I also believe that the harmonious relationship between living beings and the nature is what keeps the world intact.

Sexual Self

It's a bit embarrassing as I do have a lot to say about sexuality. I think being confident in knowing what you really like and not being fazed by the society is the key on loving and knowing yourself. Choosing this theme for my brochure was a way to show that gender is a social construct, I really do think anyone can be anything they want to be as long as harm isn't intended,

Digital Self

The social media used to be a big part in my life, specially during the COVID era, I liked meeting people, and during that period, I met a lot of online friends, it came to my mind that the whole endeavour is so thrilling, having to meet many personalities. Although it came to extremities where I wasn't being myself anymore so I stopped.

I take pride in how I regulate my online usage, I think it's unhealthy for people to dwell in it as it results to them losing grasp on how the world is.

Material Self

I have never really kept in touch with myself in terms of materiality, I grew up in a household with not much for entertainment or fancy things or food, it was just us playing outside as kids running around. I could say that this aspect has trained me to not complain to my parents for not being able to have what others have. I do want to achieve a life of comfort atleast.

Creative Process

It was a whole thinking process as I was creating this brochure about myself, I'm worried that it might come off as narcissistic but hey everyone is a bit of that, atleast that's what I think since I have never met someone so selfless. Either way it's supposed to unpack things about myself so I'd consider this a journey on self discovery.

Aesthetically, I thought of something more of an eye candy, something pleasing and the idea of putting symbols and colors of femininity has never become so accurate. I think it resonates with myself a lot, something I'll talk about later. More so, I genuinely think femininity as a whole is one of the prettiest aspects in the vast human culture, cherry blossoms are my muse.

End

The background is a solid light pink color. It is decorated with stylized cherry blossoms and falling petals. In the top right corner, there is a cluster of white cherry blossoms with yellow centers and pink buds. In the bottom left corner, there is another cluster of similar blossoms. Scattered throughout the background are several light pink petals of various shapes and sizes, some appearing to be in motion.
